HORRIBLE PROLICIDE—AN INFANT THROWS FROM A TRAIN OF CARS AND KILLED.—Last Sunday morning some persons walking along the track of the Ohio and Mississippi Railway, a few miles below Lawrenceburg, Ind., discovered the dead body of an infant, horribly bruised and mutilated. It was a male, apparently about six weeks old, neatly and tastefully clothed, but the drees had no mark which would lead to the detection of the parents. From the position of the child, the place where it was found, and the nature of the wounds which must have produced its death, it is thought that some mother, whose shame was advertised to the world by the existence of this living witness, threw it from the train of Saturday night while it was runthe train of Saturday night while it was run-ring quite rapidly, with the expectation that she might thus be relieved from the odium and the care that attended it. The affair caused considerable excitement in the neighcaused considerable excitement in the neighborhood, but nothing thus far has developed itself which throws any light upon it, or would seem to tend in any way to the discovery of the unnatural parent who could, in so brutal a manner, dispose of her offspring for the purpose of hiding her guilt.

Barbarous Outrage.—A Young Girl.
Britally Outrages.—Night before last, a young and quite a sweet-looking girl, named Phebe Patterson, arrived in the city from Osgood, Indiana, on the 250 train, for the purpose of seeking employment. As she stepped from the car at the depot of the Ohio and Mississippi Railway, she was met by a person bearing the shape, but apparently none of the attributes of a man, named John Barracks, who, seeing that she was unprotected, offered to procure her lodging for the night, and in the morning furnish her with a situation. He seemed so kind, and she was so lonely, that she willingly consented to accompany him. When they had walked about half a square from the depot, he turned down an alley and soon reached a stable, into which, in spite of her resistance, he dragged her, and then knocking her down, closed the door, and in the most brutal manner violated her person. The screams of the girl attracted the attention of officers Cartwright and Mount, who rushed to the pisce, broke open the door, and caught the wretch, with one hand firmly clutching her throat, in the commission of the Tarquin-like outrage. Yesterday morning, Barracks was before the Police Court, and committed in default of $3,000 ball, for his appearance before the Court of Common Please. This is one of the most brutal affairs of the kind of which we have recently heard, and we carnestly hope the villain may have the full extent of that justice meted out to him which he so richly deserves.

Chesparion of the Improved Order of Ren Man—The Procession and the Ban-quer.—The improved Order of Red Men of this city, and a large number of guests from the reighboring cities, yesterday celebrated their minth anniversary, by a procession in the morning and a banquet in the evening. Their "Wigwam," at the corner of Sixth and Walnut, was decorated with flags and banners, and presented quite an elegant appearance.

At ten o'clock the procession formed on At ten o'clock the procession formed on Sixth-street, the right resting on Vine, and proceeded on its march along the route published in the Parss of yesterday. The First Divisior, which consisted of invited guests from Kentucky, together with the Pocahontas Tribe No. 3, and the Black Hawk No. 2, was headed by the United States Band, and followed by a car drawn by four white horses. It represented a grove with wild animals in its branches, and in the center a tableau of the preservation of the life of Capt. Smith by Pocahontas. On the sides of the car were the inscriptions, "Let Charity be your watchword," and "Good-will to one and all alike extended."

Between the second and third divisions

Between the second and third division Between the second and third divisions was also a car containing a-platform, on each corner of which stood a representation of one of the four divisions of the globe—Europe, Asia, Africa and America. Another car followed the third division, representing an Indian camp, and drawn by six white horses. The members wore an elegant regalia, and displayed war-clubs, scalping-knives, tomahawks, wampum bags, the calumet, and several other articles known best to themselves and the abortiquees all of which

In the evening the Association partook of In the evening the Association partook of a supper at Geyer's Assembly-rooms, which was one of the most miserable affairs of the kind we ever saw, and not at all worthy of the occasion or the Red Men. The procession was a fine affair, but the banquet bore no resemblance to what the name would suggest. George A. Peter presided, toasts were drank, speeches made, and the evening—barring the supper—passed off quite pleasantly.

third on demand, and the remainder in twelve months from the same date, if needed and required by the Directors of the Association. It is the object of the Association to purchase and improve the Trotting Park now belonging to Mr. Stevens, and make it a place of summer resort, and to furnish accommodations so that a Fair may be held every fall, on such a scale as will induce an exhibition by agriculturist and manufacturers which will be beneficial to both. The first great feature of the property is that it has one of the finest tracks in the country. It is a mile long, and so arranged that while on it the animal is in full view from any part of it all the time. It is like the link of a chain, long and rounded at each end; on one end is the amphitheater, of 600 feet in diameter, three stories high, the entire front of iron, the seats capable of seating 15,000 persons; in the rear of which is a promenade. Behind this there are two splendid rooms, 30 feet wide and 900 feet long, which is the length of the amphifeet long, which is the length of the amphi-theater from end to end. These are intended to accommodate all sorts of visitors in the line of manufacturing, fine fabric, furniture, and every other sort of fine articles, which heretofore have never been furnished with such rooms as would answer safely such pur-poses.

This arrangement will afford a convenient resort for the ladies, both as a promenade and a view of what is going in the ring in front of it, where the stock is to be exhibited. The outer wall of this amphitheater is to be of brick, and the roof metalic. Near the amphitheater is a splendid lake for swimming and watering the animals. A regular swimamphitheater is a splendid lake for swimming and watering the animals. A regular swim-ming school will be carried on here during the summer months.

The Power Hall and Agricultural Impliment-room are made of brick, with metallic fected on a large scale, and no doubt it will pay every one concerned.

MAN INSTANTLY KILLED BY A FALL.—Coroner Carey was called upon yesterday morning, to hold an inquest upon the body of a man named Conrad Popp, which was found upon the sidewalk in the rear of Jefferson Hall, corner of Twelfth and Main. The deceased had attended a ball at that place night before last, and, having become intoxicated, it is thought that he fell from the third-story window. His skull was frightfully fractured and his neck broken, so that death must have been instantaneous. He was a brewer, about thirty-five years of age, unmarried, and resided with his employer on Buckeye-street.

Midnight Assault and Robbery.—Abram Simmond, Benjamin Scott and Aaron Rankin were arrested night before last, and committed to the Hammond-street Station-house, for assaulting and robbing a man named Peter Williams, on the corner of Seventh and Gulvert. They were taken before Judge Lowe, yesterday morning, and held to ball in the sum of $1,500 each, to answer the charge at the next term of the Court of Common Pleas, but in default were sent to Jail. but in default were sent to Jail.

LAW REPORT.

SUPERIOR COURT. THE STREET RAILROAD ON BROADWAY-RCIBION UPON THE APPLICATION FOR AN IN-SUNCTION.—George Shoenberger and others vs. Charles H. Kilgour and others. Judge Storer disposed of this case, in which an application was before the Court to have the defendants restrained from laying a double track for their cars on Broadway between Fourth and Pearl-streets.

The Court expressed a doubt as to the power of a municipal bedy to grant a price.

power of a municipal body to grant a privi-ege in its nature tending to a monopoly; and also, as to the legal acceptance of the olution passed by Council giving the grant resolution passed by Council giving the grant to this Company.

Leaving all these questions to be subsequently decided, the point on which he (Judge Storer) now should give his opinion was, that the Council had not any right whatever to authorize more than one track on any street in this city. His reasons were these: On the 24th of August, a resolution was passed referring to this ordinance, and declaring that all railways to be laid down under it should occupy the center of the street, thereby giving a construction to the power they had as-all railways to be laid down under it should occupy the center of the street, thereby giving a construction to the power they had assumed. If the City Council could lay down two tracks they could lay down twenty. If they could occupy more than the middle of the street, according to their own theory, they could occupy the whole, and could change the streets from the original purpose. Besides, this is the only Company to which this grant has been given. No other of these associated bodies has the power, and why is it that the City Council zhould select one Company and give them the privilege, was to him a matter of surprise. Good reason might, perhaps, be given for it, but it looks like partial legislation.

Inasmuch as the Legislature at its last session had indirectly sanctioned this, the power to grant these privileges; and, inasmuch as such an outlay had already been made, he was willing to permit one track to be laid; yet the exercise of such power on the part of a municipal body should be controlled strictly. No doubt these passenger railways are a very great convenience, and in that view were to be treated with great favor, nevertheless, when they assume a power inconsistent with the use of the streets by the great public, they should be so controlled that the least difficulty should follow, and the damage be sustained.

This was the only city, he believed, in which, without sore, and in that the least difficulty should follow, and the damage be sustained.

the least difficulty should follow, and the damage be sustained.

This was the only city, he believed, in which, without special legislation, the municipal body had assumed to act in the premises. In New York the companies declined to apply to the City Council, and now apply to the Legislature, and so in Philadelphia. The companies here should have applied to the Legislature, and there would have been no difficulty.

The order now made by this Court was, that the company may be permitted to lay down one track; and that they be enjoined from laying down another; that the track laid down must be placed in the center of the street; that the City Engineer attend in person, and direct the mode in which the work shall go on; and that where any work has been commenced for the purpose of a double track, the street shall be restored to its former condition.

SIX SOUTHERN STATES THREATEN TO BOLT,

Charleston, April 23.—The city is quiet to-night. There is no public speaking at head-quarters. The votes of the delegations to-day are regarded as indicating the election of Douglas. All the Douglas men voted in favor of the Soft New York delegation. The Committee on Credentials will report largely in their favor, and also in favor of the Illinois Douglas delegates. It is believed the Softs will vote for Douglas. The thermometer is eighty-four in the shade.

Alabama will demand a slave code, and an effort will be made to ballot for a candidate before the Committee on Platform reports. The indications are that the Convention will adjourn by Thursday.

TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENCE. The present inclination is to nominate first with usage before the Cincinnati Convention, but this is opposed by the Douglas men and the extreme South. New York favors such a policy as is best calculated to harmonize the differences of the New York delegation, a policy as is best calculated to harmonize the differences of the New York delegation, because some of their absentees are expected to-night. Mr. Barr was appointed vice Mr. Church on the committee to fill their places. It is now decidedly anti-Douglas. George Sanders will be refused a seat, which has a significance of feeling in the delegation.

Present signs conspire against the nomination of Mr. Douglas, and rumor says that New York will go for Mr. Hunter, which has dampened the hopes of his friends, who concede an unexpected defection in the South, where he will probably receive seven votes.

The combination between New York and the North-west is now contradicted, and the former is receding for fear of uniting the South against their admission. The South is concentrating on Mr. Hunter. The delegates from South Carolina reconsidered their purpose to vote for Mr. Davis this morning, and agreed on Mr. Hunter. Mr. Pierce, of Md., is suggested by some Douglas men, who have resolved to stand by him resolutely, and prevent two-thirds for any other candidate, but they can not hold the Eastern delegation for such a purpose as they anticipate; hence they will fail if the experiment be tried.

An animated contest may be expected in the Convention to-morrow on the question whether a majority of a delegation may cast the vote of the State, it being considered necessary to affirm the precedence of 1852 and 1856.

Washineron, April 23.—Private advices from Charleston indicate that the Massachusetts and New York Soft delegations will act in unison if the latter get seats without difficulty. They will go for Mr. Douglas provided their strength secures his nomination.

Mr. Douglas will not accept the nomination on such a platform. He is still confident of success, however. The Administration's advices are favorable to Mr. Hunter, on the Cincinnati platform. Messrs. Hunter and Douglas are said to understand each other, and will accord a hearty support to which CHABLESTON, April 24.—The Convention re-assembled at 10 o'clock this morning. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported in favor of the Honorable Caleb Cushing for President, and one Vice-President and Secretary for each State in the Union. Those of New York are Erastus Corning and J. Edward Cook; for Maryland, W. D. Bowie and D. L. Law; and for Pennsylvania, Thomas Cunningham and F. Vanzant.

Cunningham and F. Vanzant.

A dispatch from Washington was shown around the hall from a member of the Cabinet, declaring that the reports of dissention in the Cabinet, growing out of Walker's testimony, are entirely destitute of foundation, and that the Cabinet was never more entirely harmo-nions.

The Committee on Permanent Organization also reported an additional rule, to-wit: That in any delegation in which it has not been provided or directed by its State Convention how its vote may be given, the Convention will recognize the right of each delegate to cast his individual vote.

Mr. Wright of Pennsylvia made at tops Mr. Wright, of Pennsylvattia, made a strong appeal for harmony. If harmony did not prevail here the nomination to be made would not be worth the paper on which it was re-corded, when brought before the people. He was in favor of the rule. The vote was taken on that part of the report relating to presiding officers, and it was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Flovrney then returned thanks, counseling moderation and harmony. "We are all marching under one flag. The Democratic party have but one flag, the flag of our country." He denounced sectionalism, and hoped no more allusions would be made to such divisions.

the Constitution," called forth prolonged cheering. It was the destiny of the Democratic party, he said, to stand upon this and strike down and conquer the fanaticism arrayed against it in one section of the Union. The following is Mr. Cushings's address on taking the Chair. After the cheering had subsided, he said:

Gentlemen of the Convention—I respectfully tender to you my most earnest expression of profound gratitude for the benor you have this day done me in appointing me to preside over your deliberations. It is, however, a responsible duty imposed, much more than a high honor conferred. In the discharging of that duty in the direction of business and of debate, and in the preservation of order, it shall be my-constant endeavor faithfully and impartially to officiate as your minister. In a great deliberative assembly like this, it is not the presiding officer in whom the strength resides; it is not his strength, but yours your intelligence, your sense of honor, your sense of order, your instinct of self-respect. I rely, gentlemen, confidently upon you, not upon myself, for the prompt and parliamentary dispatch of the business of this Convention.

Gentlemen, you have come here from the upon myself, for the prompt and parliamentary dispatch of the business of this Convention.

Gentlemen, you have come here from the great hills of the Eastern States, from the rich States of the imperial center, from the sun-lighted plains of the South, from the fertile States of the mighty basin of the Mississippi, from the golden shores of the distant Oregon and Californa. [Loud cheers.] You have come hithe, in the exercise of the highest function of a free people, to participate and aid in the election of the future rulers of the Republic. You do this as the representatives of the Democratic party, of that great party of the Union whose proud mission it is to maintain the public liberties, to reconcile popular freedom with constitutional order, to maintain the sacred reserved rights of the Southern States. [Loud and long continued applause.] To stand, in a word, the perpetual sentinels on the outposts of the Constitution.

[Cries of "that's the talk," and loud and enthusiastic cheering.]

Ours, gentlemen, is the motto inscribed on that scroll in the hands of the monumental statue of the great statesman of South Carolina: "Truth, Justice and the Constitution." Opposed to us are those who labor to overthrow the Constitution, under the false and insiduous pretense of supporting it, those who are aiming to produce in this country a permanent sectional conspiracy, a traitorous sectional conspiracy, of one-half of the States of the Union against the other half; those who, impelled by the stupid and half-insane spirit of faction and fanaticism, would hurry our land on to revolution and civil war.

These banded enemies of the Constitution, it is the part, the high and noble part of the Democracy of the Union to withstand, to strike down and conquer, aye, that is qur part, and we will do it in the name of our dear country, and with the help of God we will do it, [Loud and enthusiastic cheers.]

strike down and conquer, aye, that is qurpart, and we will do it in the name of our dear country, and with the help of God we will do it. [Loud and enthusiastic cheers.] Aye, we will do it, for gentlemen, we will not distrust ourselves; we will not despair of the genius of our country, and will continue to repose in the undoubted faith, in the good providence of Almighty God. [Loud cheers.] Mr. Cushing was again loudly cheered upon the conclusion of his address.

About half an hour was then spent in settling the Vice-Presidents and arranging for the Secretaries, and also preparing for a formal and energetic enforcement of parliamentary rules in the future proceedings of the Convention.

A warm debate then sprang up on the rule reported by the Committee on Organization, in which Messrs. Richardson, McCook, Cesana, of Penn., Barry, of Miss., Josiah Randall, and many others took part. Several of the Southern delegates opposed the rule. Mr. Randall also apposed it, declaring that certain refractory members in the delegation proposed to violate and misrepresent their constituents in voting for Douglas, whose nomination, in his opinion, would lead to certain defeat. He then went into a review of the action of the preceding Democratic Convention on this subject.

Mr. Richardson rose to reply, and asked Mr. Randall who made him an expounder of Democratic principles and precedence. How long had the gentleman been in the Democratic ranks?

This caused cries of "order," and great excitement ensued. Several persons rose to

The question was then called on the motion to strike out the rule relative to the right of members of each delegation to vote as they think proper, unless instructed by the convention that appointed them.

During the call of the roll, the greatest excitement existed. The Tennessee and Virginia delegations protested against the announcement of the Chairman, giving the votes as a unit against the adoption of the rule. Ten of the twelve Tennessee delegates were
